

About the Author

After coming out of the New Age and occult, Pamela Holliday's mission has been to reach those involved in those dark practices. She also wanted to provide a resource for Christians to help and encourage them to shine the light of truth into this often-misunderstood area. It is for these reasons that this book took shape.

In the Scriptures God warns, "My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge..." (Hosea 4:6a). There is no doubt that one of Satan's primary playgrounds is the unknown. Ms. Holliday believes that by learning to appropriate their God-given spiritual authority, Christians need not be intimidated or fearful concerning the powers of darkness. God-ordained knowledge and understanding are essential for spiritual victory. The reader will find all of this and more addressed in the pages of The Grand Delusion.

Pamela Holliday lives in the beautiful Texas Hill Country with her three feline companions. There, they welcome white tail deer, raccoons, opossums and other of God's creatures onto her property.

Eric Barger says:

"Make no mistake, this is not a book about occult darkness. Instead, it is a powerful account of victory! These pages, brimming with Scriptural understanding and insight, also offer hope to anyone with friends or family following a dark path. My prayer is that God will use this book in a mighty way for His glory!"
